Delightful Sodas That Any Soda Drinker Ought To Sample

Was there ever a greater drink invented than Cola? I don't think so. The amount of soda I consume is scary, so I guess you could call me an addict.

I love all flavors of soda as well as cola. A big thrill for me is trying out new or as yet undiscovered brands and finding I prefer them to the famous ones, I get a real kick out of that.

What tips the balance for me are those drinks that use real sugar instead of all the others with the high faulting names such as corn syrup or fructose. These are meant to be natural ingredients but there is nothing natural about the way that they are processed.

For whatever reasons, there are some great tasting sodas out there that never receive the recognition that they deserve. Here are a few that I think you'll enjoy.

Root beer is one of this country's biggest selling beverages, and one of the best I've ever tasted is the award winning Virgil's. This is a delicious drink which sadly doesn't get the recognition it deserves, despite all its prizes.

Another gem that Virgil's produces is the simply delicious black cherry vanilla cream soda. Trust me; this drink tastes every bit as good as it sounds.

A great cola without any stupidly named ingredients is by Boylan's and it's a traditional tasting sugar cane cola. This has pure cane sugar and other true natural ingredients which will really give your taste buds a treat.

My final choice is the green teas soda range that is produced by Steaz. These drinks blend fruit flavor with green tea. There are many varieties to choose from including lemon & lime, raspberry, root beer and orange. Another benefit of these is that thanks to the green tea they are healthier than ordinary sodas.
